GERMANS AGREE TO MEET TERMS OF ALLIED ULTIMATUM

INCLUDES DISARMING OF ALL GERMAN FORCES INCLUDING SECURITY POLICEMEN

WILL ABOLISH COMPULSORY MILITARY SERVICE—SURRENDER ALL ARMS TO ALLIES

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Spa, Belgium, July 9.—The German delegation today agreed to meet the terms of the allied ultimatum demanding she disarm her forces immediately. The Germans however, in signing the ultimatum protested against the proposal that the allied forces occupy the German territory on the Ruhr river unless the German army is reduced to 150,000 officers and men by October 1, claiming that this declaration was a violation of the Versailles treaty.

The Germans agreed to the first four terms set down in the allied ultimatum as follows:

Disarming of all German forces, including their security police immediately.

Germany must publish a proclamation ordering immediate surrender of all arms, ammunition, guns and cannon in excess of the treaty terms, to be handed over to the allies without delay.

Germany must abolish compulsory military service.

The fifth proposal said that unless the German army was reduced to 150,000 by October 1 next, the allies would occupy the Ruhr district and other German territory which would be held until such time as all conditions of the ultimatum were fulfilled.

While Germany agreed to reduce their military forces, they declared that the allies had no right to threaten occupation of the Ruhr district.

HARDING DENIES BEING REACTIONARY

EXPECT TO LINE UP ALL PROGRESSIVES BACK OF HIS CANDIDACY

RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Marion, Ohio, July 9.—Any effort of political opponents to fasten the label "reactionary" on Senator Warren G. Harding will be stoutly resisted by the republican candidate in his presidential campaign, he indicated today.

Harding calls himself a "regular" and is making every effort to line up old Roosevelt progressive following behind his standard.

Harding's friends denied he has a reactionary record in the senate. They declared scrutiny on votes he cast on important measures will fail to disclose such an attitude.

Republican leaders foresee an attempt by Cox forces to make a drive for all progressive votes and will take steps to checkmate this move. Senator Harding is expected to have a conference today with J. Frank Hanley, former governor of Indiana, a strong prohibition advocate.

DEMPSEY CHALLENGED TO DEFEND HEAVY-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

By HENRY FARRELL
(Written for the United Press)
New York, July 9.—Jack Dempsey will defend his world heavyweight championship for the first time against Bill Brennan, the Chicago heavyweight. The articles were signed today by Jack Kearns and Leo Flynn, managers of the principals.

Benton Harbor, Philadelphia, Rochester, New Orleans and Minneapolis have bid for the fight with prize ranging from $40,000 to $75,000 for the champion services.

As Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight, could not now call for a challenge, Kearns turned his attention to a pile of offers for bouts with Preenen, Fred Fulton and Billy Miske.

AMERICAN OWNERS MEXICAN OIL WELLS WILL BE PROTECTED

SAYS PRESIDENT DE LA HUERTA, IN AN INTERVIEW WITH U. P. CORRESPONDENT

RALPH TURNER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Mexico City, July 9.—The rights of American holders of oil property in Mexico will be protected. A decree will soon be issued which will settle the oil question permanently. President De La Huerta declared in an interview today.

The Mexican chief executive was lying in bed ill with appendicitis when he met the foreign press correspondent.

De La Huerta said there had been six minor revolts thus far all of which had collapsed. He said the government was capable of meeting any rebellious factions even though they were ten times as strong as any that has started trouble.

Regarding the oil situation he said the government would insist upon the principle of national ownership of oil and added that the controversies now existing would be settled satisfactorily to all.

De La Huerta said this would be done by issuing a decree granting owners of oil property a five year period in which to file claims on land which was their by direct sale or lease. When claims were finally awarded the right to drill for oil would be settled satisfactorily to all would become the exclusive and perpetual prerogative of the claimant.

Collapse of Pendleton's "lead" again left authorities without clues which promised the solution of the "most mysterious murder of the generation."

WANT NEW THIRD PARTY CALLED "LABOR PARTY"

NATIONAL LABOR PARTY WILLING TO JOIN MOVEMENT IF THIS NAME IS ADOPTED

DON CHAMBERLAIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, July 9.—The National Labor Party was scheduled today to make its decision as to whether it will cast its fortunes with the new political movement.

A meeting of the executive committee was held here to take up the proposal that the labor party join with the committee of forty-eight, the non-partisan league, the single tax party, the triple alliance and national service party in launching a third political party.

The only hitch apparent today for the proposed amalgamation is the question of a name for the new party.

Labor leaders unanimously favor a union of all liberal organizations, but want the new party called "The Labor Party." The committee of forty-eight expects to convince laborites that a party with that title will not prove popular.

Blief that Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, will accept the presidential nomination of the new party prevailed today in talk at headquarters of the labor party and committee of forty-eight.

Robertson, president, said at a hearing before the state railroad and warehouse commission today. He said that in addition to this the company will need $3,624,000 for refunding existing indebtedness.

Whether the price of labor and material will decrease in the next few years was discussed by telephone men at this morning's hearing. The general opinion was that prices would not decrease, but if anything would come up.

BOLSHEVIST FORCES INVADING POLAND ON 500 MILE FRONT

COX BECOMES STORM CENTER OF WET AND DRY FIGHT

BOTH SIDES ARE ASKING HIM TO DECLARE THAT HE WILL SUPPORT THEIR CONTENTIONS

H. W. WALKER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Dayton, Ohio, July 9.—The prohibition issue is fast coming to the front in the preliminary plans for the campaign of Governor James M. Cox, the democratic nominee.

Dry factors of the party, it is apparent from telegrams now being received, are bent upon forcing him to declare for the present drastic prohibition law. Anti prohibition forces have started a counter offensive thus making Cox a storm center.

No inkling of what Wm. Jennings Bryan, with the backing of the anti-saloon league, intends to do about Cox's candidacy has been received here. He is one leading democrat who has sent no congratulations. The prohibition question is becoming more important and it is certain to be a main topic of discussion of the big conferences of party leaders.

Cox expects to send a reply soon to the demand of Richmond P. Hobson and the anti-saloon league that he declare opposition to any change in the Volstead law.

FORMER BULL MOOSERS WILL NOT SUPPORT HARDING

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Chicago, July 9.—Full support of former Bull Moosers for Senator W. G. Harding in his race for the presidency was denied today by National Chairman J. A. Hopkins of the committee of forty-eight.

Hopkins himself was connected with the Bull Moose movement of 1912. He said the committee of forty-eight has former progressives who would work for it in practically every state. He specifically mentioned Chas. F. Hopkins of Michigan; Dorr Carroll of North Dakota; Matthew Hale of Massachusetts; and George L. Record of New York as former Bull Moose workers, who will be active in keeping a progressive support from the republican nominee.

"We are assured from correspondents from every part of the country that those who left the republican party in 1912 are even more discouraged today with the reactionary candidate and the platform put on by the old guard."

"The bosses are whistling to keep up their courage. The platforms and nominees of the two old parties have affronted the people and are afraid a popular revolt may sweep them into the discard."

BY THE SENATE COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—A nation wide primary law drawn to end large campaign expenses will be recommended by the senate committee investigating presidential primary campaign expenditures, Chairman W. S. Kenyon intimated today.

Kenyon and other members of the committee were here to open a hearing today on the expenses of Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer and his alleged use of his position for personal aims.

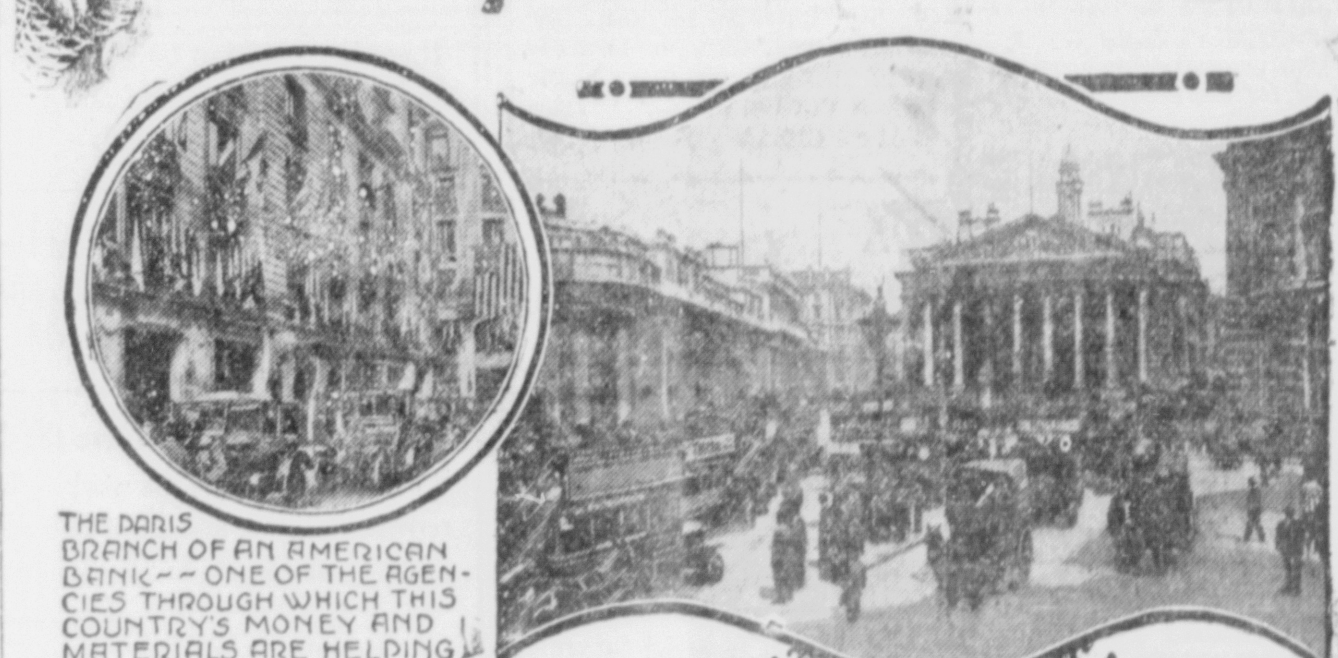

Edward F. Goltra, Missouri democratic national chairman, and Joseph T. Davis, St. Louis attorney, were expected to testify today. The hearings were expected to conclude the investigation. The committee sitting in Chicago yesterday completed the probe of republican candidate activities except for a few minor details.

DEMOCRAT COMMITTEE WILL MEET WITH NOMINEE JULY 20

HERBERT WALKER
(United Press Correspondent)
Dayton, Ohio, July 9.—The first big political pow wow of the democratic convention will be held here July 29 when the democratic national committee meets with the party nominee, James M. Cox.

This was agreed today by Cox and Hoer S. Cumings, chairman of the democratic national committee after an exchange of telegrams and long distance telephone conversation. Cumings wired from San Francisco that the full committee will meet here instead of a sub-committee as originally planned. Then the conference by a definite decision is expected to say whether Cox shall carry out his wishes and stump the country. The notification ceremony will be planned.

Work Is Regenerating European Nations

THE PARIS BRANCH OF AN AMERICAN BANK—ONE OF THE AGENCIES THROUGH WHICH THIS COUNTRY'S MONEY AND MATERIALS ARE HELPING TO PUT EUROPE ON HER FEET

By FRANCIS H. Sisson
Vice-President Guaranty Trust of New York

Europe has not succumbed to its economic catastrophe. And I believe that it will not succumb. But Europe must work as it has never worked in all its history. When the world really gets down to work again we shall soon cure our existing major economic ills. The sooner Europe recognizes that truth, the better it will be for her and all the world.

The betterment in Europe since the war has been due chiefly to the fact that that Continent has been able to command the raw materials of the remainder of the world and to bend its energies to the production of essentials—to work.

Among the former European belligerents, Great Britain is in the best position. Her industry has made enormous strides during 1919 and her foreign traders and bankers have made notable progress in the world's markets.

Great Britain is now actually "turning the corner." The present fiscal year shows a deficit of several billion dollars—a deficit which has had to be taken care of by Ways and Means Advances and Treasury Bills. It is certain that economies will be rigidly enforced during the coming fiscal year in order that there may be no repetition of this situation and that, instead of an increase of the Kingdom's floating debt, there will be a reduction.

In France, progress has necessarily been slower than in England, but there has been progress. No country could endure what France has undergone and expect to recuperate in fifteen months. Her two great needs today are adequate taxation and debt consolidation, including, particularly, the reduction of the advances by the Bank of France to the Government, in order that the amount of French paper money may be reduced.

The yield of existing taxes consistently increased during 1919 and outstripped budget estimates.

Belgium, like France, is today offering for subscription a large premium loan—in the case of the little kingdom

ROYAL EXCHANGE AND BANK OF ENGLAND—LONDON IS STILL THE WORLD'S FINANCIAL CENTER—GREAT BRITAIN HAS "TURNED THE CORNER" IN POST-WAR RECOVERY

THE BOURSE, FRANCE'S STOCK EXCHANGE, WHERE THE EXPANSION OF THE REPUBLIC'S INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY IS REFLECTED

for the definite amount of two and a half million francs—to take care of current necessities and reduce floating indebtedness. Like France, too, she is now levying heavier taxes on her people.

Taxes which, as industry continues to increase in productivity, will yield greater amounts. These include heavy inheritance taxes, Belgium is assuredly "coming back" and she is gaining momentum every day.

The two outstanding factors of interest in the Italian financial situation are the status of the Sixth Internal Loan, now being floated, and taxation prospects. The success of the loan has been beyond the expectation of the Government. This achievement will go far toward stabilizing Italian finance, reducing the country's floating debt, and still will enable the Government to cut down the issue of paper currency.

With a deficit of 50 billion dollars, reparations payments in money and in kind, to look forward to, amounting to tens of billions, marks at a discount of more than 90 per cent, a shortage of many sorts of raw materials, great insufficiency of coal supplies, 50 billion marks of paper money outstanding, and the tendency to increase rather than to diminish the total, with no merchant fleet to bring the greatly needed raw materials and food-stuffs from abroad with these and other unfavorable elements in the situation, the outlook for Germany is indeed discouraging. The only loan floated during 1919 was a dismal failure.

But the German Government is evincing willingness to try to meet expenses by heavy taxation, including a capital levy. And, despite her heavy burden, I believe that Germany will continue to "carry on" without repudiation of her colossal debt, although she has been forced to recognize the depreciation of her currency.

Russia is still in the throes of economic chaos, but even she is awakening to the necessity for work and to a realization of the value of gold as a symbol of crystallized labor. It may be years before the Russian people shake off the tyranny of Bolshevism, but they will do so sooner or later and will again become one of the great nations of the world.

It is in full appreciation of these facts, that the United States should face the European problem and meet the responsibilities and opportunities it presents. This country is a vast reservoir of raw materials which all the world sorely needs; we have the strength, virility and dynamic energy of a youthful nation—the spirit of the New World. And in helping Europe to rehabilitate itself we will help ourselves.

EDITORIAL OUTING

CROSBY JULY 10-13

Under Auspices of the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association.
Program in Detail

BRAINERD BAND, ORCHESTRA

Brainerd Baseball Team to Battle Crosby 3 p. m. July 17-3 Days of Rare Pleasure

Minnesota editors and publishers will hold their summer outing at Crosby this year, the dates being July 16, 17 and 18. In a letter to members of the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association and other brethren of the press and their ladies, Secretary A. G. Rutledge outlined the feast of good things provided and it may be noted that Crosby has generously given Brainerd music and baseball a part on the program, the Brainerd Municipal band of 40 pieces and a Brainerd orchestra playing under the direction of Wm. F. Palmer, and Brainerd and Crosby battling for baseball honors at 3 p. m. July 17 and on Sunday.

Here is the program of the editors:

We believe that you will hail with delight the announcement that this summer's outing will be held at Crosby July 16-17-18 and that a splendid program has been prepared for you, at a delightful place.

National and state political conventions have been held; observations of the "Nation's Natal Day" (July 4) will have been carried out with much enthusiasm; and the relaxation from strenuous effort on the part of the members of the "Fourth Estate" will create a desire to again mingle with the "boys" and "girls" at the outing as in previous years.

You are invited to be a member of the jolly crowd that will be at Crosby. You need the rest and recreation. You need the inspiration that we who go will bring back with us. You will get your money's worth—and the balance of your business year will be more profitable for your having gone. It is a poor newspaper man indeed who doesn't gather enough inspiration and ideas at one of these outings of the Northern Minnesota association to more than pay his expenses.

Outstanding features of this year's outing include a mass patriotic meeting, with an address by U. S. Senator Knute Nelson, Minnesota's beloved veteran statesman; a visit to the Cuyuna Iron Range mines; athletic races and contests for the editorial championship of the state; boating, bathing and fishing on Serpent lake; a fine reception and dance; and music by the Brainerd eight-piece orchestra and forty piece band, under the leadership of William F. Palmer, one of the best directors in the state. There will be something doing all the time that will interest you.

Read all of this announcement and follow the instructions given herein, and you will have good accommodations and greatly enjoy the outing from every angle.

Friday, July 16

The state military and naval forces will be represented, as well as the Loyal Legion and other patriotic orders state officials, etc. A general invitation is extended to Minnesotans to join in this welcome and testimonial to Minnesota's veteran statesman. Tribute to the Pen.

The pen, like the sword, has a dark side to its history. Not only has it created a good deal of rubbish, but it has appealed to the evil passions of the ignorant and the disloyal; it has incited anarchy, sedition and hatred. But to the pen we are indebted for all the books of the world. It has enabled poets to sing to us, fictionists to charm us, philosophers and men of science to share with us their valuable knowledge; it gives us the Bible, it inspired civilization. It is a mighty agent "Beneath the rule of men entirely great."

His Idea of Train's Action.

There is a story of a Suffolk (England) yokel who, having lived some distance from a railway station, and being content with the society around him, had never had need of a train, and, being brought into contact with a railway, stood watching this new wonder not far from a tunnel. His description of it afterward was that a train was more or less like a rabbit—"he ran up to the hole, let off an awful screech and bolted into it."

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe. Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

THEY MUST BE AMERICANIZED

Americanization work in the United States is just coming into its own. In the past there has been a serious laxity in teaching foreigners among us that it is up to them to learn our ways as well as our language, and the subject has been woefully neglected.

Among the important things brought about by the war, progress in Americanization work is one. Before the war most Americans seemed to take it for granted that the thousands of people who immigrated to our shores every year would become Americanized naturally by their constant mingling with others of this country, by breathing the free air and by having the advantage of American opportunities.

The war has taught us that something else is necessary. Foreigners do not become Americanized by their own volition; they do not adopt our language and customs of their own accord. Opportunities that are offered in this country do not prompt them to uphold our institutions and support our government.

The time has arrived when all these false notions must be done away with. The Americans (read red blooded Americans) will have to take hold and teach the foreigner who comes to our shores that it is necessary for him to learn to speak the American language; that the United States is no place for him unless he adopts the customs and habits of our people, and unless he resolves to bow to the emblem that represents our nation, it were better by far for him had he never ventured to this land of the "free and the brave."

At present there are at least seventy-two languages spoken in the United States and there is room for one. That one is the American language and, without any quibbling, it must be the only one. No man or woman can be a good American and speak a foreign tongue.—Minneapolis Tribune.

ON THE DOWN GRADE

The Fargo Forum, which made a strenuous campaign against the Townley rule of bossism, finds consolation in the election returns, although Gov. Frazier was nominated over Langer. It says that Frazier was nominated by less than 6,000 majority, while he had a lead of 16,700 two years ago. Two years ago the league nominated three congressmen, and this year only one, and Congressman Baer, whom the league elected two years ago bit the dust of defeat this trip. The independent voters carried more than twice as many counties this year as they did in 1918, and all the counties that gave a majority against the Nonpartisan league two years ago increased their majorities this year against the Townley candidates. The Nonpartisan majority in the legislature has been greatly decreased, and the independents won two of the state officers. It was a hard fight, and with the gains made this year against Townley, a clean sweep may be expected two years hence. The failure to carry Minnesota was a hard blow to the Townley Socialistic program, and the Townley forces have undoubtedly reached the peak of their strength, and are on the down grade, never to be resurrected.—St. Cloud Journal-Press.

KIDNAPED

By REBECCA T. FARNHAM.

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Grant Fisher anxiously glanced at his watch and quickened the speed of his car as he swept on toward the lights of Greenville showing in the distance. As he entered the town the figure of a girl walking along the sidewalk caught his eye. Suddenly sweeping down beside her he stopped the car.

"Do you sing?"

She turned and stared somewhat dumbly. Then she nodded.

"Jump in, then." And before she knew exactly what had happened she was sitting by his side as they rolled on nearer and nearer the center of the town.

Finally the car stopped before a building with the words "Greenville theater" in blazing letters above it. The girl gave a sigh of relief as she saw that this was her captor's destination. A few minutes later she had passed with him through the stage entrance into the theater and was listening to the explanation of his mysterious conduct.

"It's a vaudeville act—singing. My soprano's gone back on me. I can't sing alone tonight. It's something out of the ordinary, and I've got to make a good impression. Can't change my program now. Do you know all these songs?"

She glanced through several sheets of music thrust into her hands. "All right," she said calmly. "I know them all."

"Good! Here's the costumes and makeup. Wear the Irish one. Green, you know. Four minutes."

Grant had cause to be excited. Out there in the audience, as he had scarcely 24 hours ago learned through round-about means, a scout of a famous opera company was sitting. He had come there to hear him sing with his soprano. Suddenly Grant felt a chill of horror and fear creep over him. What if this girl were really incompetent, after all, and caused the act to be a failure? What chance then would he have of making a good impression upon that scout and becoming a singer in opera instead of a mere vaudeville artist? He turned to the girl with some vague idea of telling her that she wasn't wanted after all. But just then the curtain went up and he heard the piano begin the opening measures of the song.

He forgot all about his fears in the next moment as her strong, thrilling voice rose with his. Man alive! Had he ever thought he had a good soprano before? The applause rose in volume of sound as the last encore was finished. Behind the scenes Grant found words very inadequate to express his emotions.

"You can't know," he began, "what you've done for me tonight. You have a wonderful voice. You ought to do something with it. Have you ever thought of it?"

"Yes, I have thought of it," the girl answered slowly.

Suddenly Grant realized that the figure in clinging green was a most adorable bit of girlhood.

"I don't even know your name yet," he said. "My name is Grant Fisher."

"If you don't mind," replied the girl, "I think I will get dressed."

"I'm a fool!" he exclaimed. "You had some important engagement and I've made you break it. Is it something that can still be attended to?"

"I was only coming here," she answered with a little smile. "I was too late, anyway, to see but half the show, and I had the rare experience of taking part in the vaudeville. Thank you for that."

She bowed in farewell and went away, leaving him in a state of bewilderment.

For the next few days Grant spent half his spare time in scouring the streets of Greenville in his roadster, anxious for another glimpse of the girl. The other half he was riding back from Greenville to his headquarters in the city, always on the watch for the longed-for message from the opera company.

At last the summons came and at the appointed hour he was being ushered into an office where were two desks, at one of which sat the mighty personage.

"Mr. Fisher," said Mr. Townsend, "I should first like to introduce you to my right-hand man, Miss Eloise Radlin."

Grant turned toward the other desk and—there sat the girl. Somehow he managed to pull himself out of his amazement long enough to make the necessary polite remarks. Mr. Townsend went on:

"Miss Radlin is the chief cause of your being here, Mr. Fisher. We need another tenor, and when I heard of you I sent Miss Radlin as a scout. She has informed me that 'we can't do without you,' and as she herself is an important soprano, who sings many times in combination with a tenor, I think she ought to know."

Grant looked toward Eloise and was delighted to see her blush. Then, as Mr. Townsend went into the next room for something about the contract which was to make Grant a member of the company, the two were alone together.

"How could you ever recommend me after the way I treated you, like a highwayman, a bandit, a kidnaper?" cried Grant.

Eloise bent forward. "Faint heart never won fair lady," she said softly. And something seemed to tell Grant that he had made a conquest.

WAR SHORN OF ITS GLAMOR

Modern Painters, Who Themselves Have Looked on Death, Depict Slaughter as It Really Is.

For the first time in history war is painted as it is. The varnish, the glory has been taken off. It stands out in all its sordid horror. The opening of the Salon des Artistes Français, filled for the most part with canvases of men who have been in the trenches, show an astonishing absence of battle scenes.

Most of the painters have sought inspiration elsewhere. Those who have found it in the war have rendered only the dull misery of life at the front.

They show no clash of armies, these painters who have been through the war, no flourish of trumpets, not even fragments of general fights. But war as it is. A soldier, limping toward the lines, exhausted, despairing, holding up to his mouth a handkerchief, dark as a clot of blood is what one sees. The face is distorted with suffering, and the uniform is of that indescribable color which comes only from continual exposure to the elements. Garry paints a blinded soldier guided towards a relief station, Michel and Pouzargues show water-flooded trenches.

If governments in the future wish more pleasant and cheerful war scenes they will have to call on artists who stayed away from the front. Those who served were too close to death to paint anything but the truth.

JUST REPETITION OF HISTORY

Fads of the Present Day Had Their Counterpart in the Fashions of Years Ago.

Nothing is new under the sun, not even the newest and most up-to-date girl strikers of the present day, with bobbed hair, nor even the employer who complains of the fashion. A writer in "Blackwood" has discovered that in the time of James I, this fashion was affected by women who donned the doublet and hose, which aroused the ire of an unknown author, who in 1629 lampooned the women of the day for so dressing, and instead of keeping to "the modest attire of the comely hood, cowl or coif and handsome dress and kirtles" betook themselves to the "cloudy, ruffianly, broad-brimmed hat and wanton feathers." Nor was this all. The extravagance of her costume, with the "French doublet" which took the place of a "concealed straight gown" was not in the author's eye the deadliest offense; incredible though it seems, she would "out and out her hair to the despicable fashion of the Puritan." So the bobbed hair comes as a reminiscence of the modern maidens' forebears in the Covenanters' time.

Selling Shoes Under Difficulties.

Dean B. Stover, southern salesman for a Brooklyn shoe concern, got an order under difficulties while out on his last trip. He made a North Carolina town and hired a taxi to take him to a township 15 miles away to which few trains ran. Arriving on the outskirts of his destination he found that the heavy floods had washed away the only bridge. Mr. Stover decided the only thing to do was to turn back until the taxi driver suggested that there might be a boat somewhere around. Mr. Stover hunted along the banks until he found a flat bottomed skiff and he rowed across. He interviewed his customer, paddled him back to the other shore, requisitioned a small wharf and laid out a new bridge.

"The novel in question is harmless, and the people who brought about that poor publisher's conviction were as silly as—as—as well as it reminds me of a story."

"Attention, young ladies! When we come to the next statue but one you will all blush."

Newlyweds to Tents.

A honeymoon colony, believed to be the first of its kind in England, has been established in a meadow near Farnham, Surrey. At the edge of a certain wood half a dozen tents may be seen. They are the homes of the four brides and their husbands who, rendered homeless by the house shortage, have begun their married life in the open air.

The colony is likely to be still further enlarged, for several other couples have applied for admission.—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Immunity From Ivy Poisoning. Persons susceptible to ivy poisoning can be rendered immune by taking a treatment described by Dr. Jay Frank Schumberg in the Journal of the American Medical Association. It consists in taking after meals a preparation of tincture of poison ivy, in doses gradually increasing from one drop to a teaspoonful. The immunity conferred by this lasts for about a month. Ivy poisoning may also be cured by administering the same drug in larger doses, increasing more rapidly.

Everybody Appreciates Service

—especially when that service is of the right kind and is voluntarily offered. It is a comfortable sensation to know that there is a reliable authority to whom you can appeal without having to dig down for a fee.

Subscribers to the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS AND DISPATCH have at their disposal a series of SERVICE DEPARTMENTS that are greatly appreciated. Readers have been saved much unnecessary trouble and expense by freely using this service, and we want to emphasize that the experts in charge of these departments will always reply personally to all inquiries enclosing a stamped addressed envelope, if the inquirer does not want the reply published. This especially applies to Dr. Brady's Health Department.

Our Service Departments—which are open to man, woman and child, alike—comprise the following:

DR. BRADY ON HEALTH—In addition to an interesting article in each issue, Dr. Brady replies to questions on health and hygiene in a manner peculiarly his own. He can be very serious when necessary, and very jocular when the inquiry calls for healthy "joshing" rather than solemn advice. He knows just as well as you do when your ailment is the result of personal foolishness.

INVESTMENT INFORMATION—There are two financial experts in charge of this department, and prospective investors have been saved many a loss by consulting them. If you want to know the status of various stocks and bonds or need advice on the financial aspect of any undertaking these experts are at your service.

THE SERVICE MAN'S OWN CORNER—Is conducted by Col. F. L. Minnigerode, commanding officer of the Fifth Minnesota, as a general information department for the men who have worn Uncle Sam's uniform. All questions received during the week are answered in the Sunday edition or referred to the proper authority for complete details.

THE WOMAN'S SECTION—answers a good many questions before they are asked. Those in charge of the various departments which discuss Dressmaking, Styles, Housekeeping, Cooking, Nursing and the many other topics which make up woman's daily life are always alive to the domestic questions of the hour. If, however, there are certain points upon which our women readers desire information, their correspondence is welcome.

MAIL TO THE EDITOR—which contains matter of public interest is published every day in the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Subscribers with a message to convey, a grievance to air or a remedy to suggest are welcome to the use of these columns. Our attitude toward these communications is absolutely unbiased—both sides of an argument receive equal consideration.

THE CHILDREN'S PAGE—service department is kept pretty busy. Hundreds of letters weekly find their way to the kiddies' editor, on every topic under the sun. The little ones are very keen to avail themselves of newspaper service and do not hesitate to say so. What a pity it is that some of us have to grow up!

ELECTROCUTED BY A "SHORT"

Joseph Undraitis of 601 South Sixth Street Killed at His Home on Thursday Night

THE GUY WIRE WAS SMOKING

Stricken Man Fell Backward Towards Wife on Sidewalk and Cried, "Oh, My God!"

Joseph Undraitis, age 43 and married, of 601 South Sixth street was electrocuted at 9:15 o'clock Thursday night while examining a guy line attached to an electric light pole on the corner near his house.

As told by his wife there was smoke and flashes of fire at the guy line and she was alarmed, calling to him. Mr. Undraitis came downstairs and Mr. and Mrs. Undraitis went outside to examine it. Neither had any knowledge of the danger.

The city had on its new street lighting system. Mr. Undraitis claims her husband walked out in the wet grass and never touched the wire. The wet pole, guy line, wet grass, etc., must have all contributed to form a "short".

"Undraitis cried out: 'Oh, my God!' and fell back towards the sidewalk. In falling, his left arm struck the guy line, causing a small burn. Three doctors summoned, Dr. J. A. Thabes, Dr. E. F. Jamieson and Dr. Joseph Nicholson worked without avail to resuscitate him.

Mr. Undraitis leaves a wife and step child Ruth. He belonged to the Eagles of Brainerd and the Knights and Ladies of Security lodge of St. Paul. For years he had been employed in the shops at Brainerd as a locomotive car carpenter.

Linemen in the morning were working on the wires in the vicinity of the home. The power wires in many cases are exposed throughout the city, being caused by the friction of tree limbs. At 605 South Sixth street Mrs. George Bahma claimed that in wet weather one can get a shock by touching the light pole near her home or some of the trees.

Wire contact with tree limbs caused sparks near the Palace hotel and other places last night it was reported. The light department had no idea how the Undraitis accident happened, and had men on the ground as soon as informed of the same.

The remains of Mr. Undraitis have been removed to the B. C. McNamara chapel on Laurel street, where they may be viewed until the hour of the funeral.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the McNamara chapel and at 2:30 from the Bethlehem Lutheran church on South Seventh street, Rev. M. L. Postager officiating.

RETURN FROM LAKE TRIP

Party of Brainerd Young Men Enjoyed an Outing on the Great Lakes Last Week

VISITED THE BUICK FACTORIES

Tour Consumed Eight Days and Included Stops and Side Trips at Chicago, Bay City, Etc.

Jack Imgrund of the Imgrund Auto Co., Harry Butler, Dr. H. E. Murphy and Ray Cleary have returned from an extended Eastern trip made via the Great Lakes.

Each year W. E. Pence, of the Pence Auto Co., northwestern distributor of Buick cars, gives dealers and their friends an opportunity for a lake outing. Dealers are taken to Flint, Mich., where they have a chance to inspect the factory, getting first hand knowledge of the car they handle and viewing for themselves construction, etc.

On the trip this year 290 were aboard and on June 30 the big Buick factories at Flint were visited. To one who has never seen the workings of this enormous plant the visit is one of wonders and interesting instruction. An idea of its magnitude can be gained when it is known that a total of 20,200 employees are on the payroll in Flint. The valuation of this plant is now $65,000,000 and is has been in operation 15 years. A little over $12,000,000 have been spent in new buildings during the past year.

Although running to capacity (500 cars per day) the inability to get transportation facilities has handicapped dealers in getting cars. This situation became so acute a short time ago that Mr. Pence, in order to care for his dealers in the northwest, went out and bought two trains of flat cars for the company's own use, thus insuring northwestern delivery. During the time the outing party was at the factory last week these trains were loaded with 408 touring cars and arrived in Minneapolis yesterday. The buying and equipment of those trains is said to be the biggest thing ever attempted by a distributor in the auto game.

The tour this year consumed eight days and included stops and side sight-seeing trips at Chicago, Bay City, Detroit, Parry Sound, Sault Ste. Marie, Houghton and Duluth. The party had a boat chartered by Mr. Pence and toured as one big family, enjoying an outing and courtesies not possible otherwise.

Little Falls plays the Clyde Iron Works team at Duluth July 10 and 11. From Duluth the team goes to Staples playing there July 12 and 13, and will then take on Crosby for two games. Pete Morse will play second, Ed Hill of Fairmont in the outfield, Johnny Brand on short.

MADE BRAVE FIGHT

Handicapped Wolf Almost Succeeded in Escaping.

Running on Three Legs and Dragging Trap Which Had Been His Undoing, Animal Was Killed When Almost in Safety.

"In the summer of 1882," says a westerner, "my parents moved from Iowa to the new county of Hand in South Dakota. The railway had been completed as far as Pierre, but there were few stations, and at Rice Heights, where we got off the train, there was only a rough platform made of planks, and a box car in which the agent lived.

"The last of the buffalo had been killed or driven off and the prairie was covered with the skeletons of these animals.

"The country was alive with wolves and coyotes; they were nearly as common as domestic animals are now. On almost any morning from one to a dozen could be seen from the door of our little 'claim shanty'.

"My father bought six wolf traps about the first of December, and during that month we caught more than forty coyotes within a short distance of our home, many of them within a few yards of the house. One morning we had the novel experience of finding a full-grown coyote in one of the traps, caught by the tail.

"Another morning we came back and reported that the chain had been broken and one of the traps was gone. The tracks indicated that something larger than a coyote had been taken. When father had finished the chores that morning he mounted Roger, one of the two horses that we then owned, and, taking the shotgun and old sheep with him, started out on the trail, believing that it would not be hard to overtake a wolf carrying a trap.

"But that wolf, either from instinct or because he feared he would be followed, made direct for a range of hills a mile or so to the south.

"As soon as they were near enough old sheep took a hand in the chase. She was a big black shepherd dog that had fought many a coyote, but he was too wise to risk a battle with the fierce-looking beast that was carrying the trap—for it was a big white buffalo wolf, an animal that could kill an ordinary dog in a few minutes.

"The wolf had to run on three legs, holding up one of his front feet and carrying the trap. Sheep would run up and attack him from behind, and when the wolf turned to give battle the dog would retreat. They kept up this running fight for more than a mile.

"The wolf knew that a crisis had arrived and ran for his life. With both horse and wolf running their level best, parallel with each other and about four or five rods apart, father fired the only lead he had from his old single-barreled muzzle-loading shotgun, and the wolf fell, 14 BB shot having passed through his body. The race ended just as the next snow bank, which might have meant safety for him, was reached."

Hollow Bricks in England.

A new brick that has recently been introduced in England is nearly five times as large as an ordinary brick, but in comparison is much less heavy and is easily handled. The lighter weight results from the hollowing out of the brick to provide air layers. By the shaping of the ends the existence of joints running all the way through the wall is avoided. The brick is, as a rule, made of one part of cement and four parts sand by simple hand machinery. Three men can make enough bricks in a day to build 400 to 500 square feet of wall. A further economy is effected by the manner of laying the walls, inasmuch as the ends and bottoms of the bricks need only be dipped in a thin lime mortar mixed with a small amount of cement. If laid in the usual way the air channels in the bricks would become filled.—Scientific American.

Biggest Man in Africa.

Compared with Patrick O'Connor, Albert Brough, who died a short time ago, and who owing to his seven feet seven inches, was reported to be the tallest man in the world, was a midge. O'Connor, who is at present in South Africa, is stated to be the biggest man on earth, a veritable modern Hercules. O'Connor is almost eight feet high, and a person six feet six inches high, can walk beneath his arms when outstretched horizontally. He has a chest measurement of 55 inches and weighs 375 pounds, while the ring which adorns the index finger of his right hand is so large that a 50-cent piece can pass easily through it.

Gold Dyes From Soot.

An exhibition is being held in London by the Knox guild of design and crafts, which the Times describes as "a demonstration of the beautiful results produced by ordinary methods of dyeing." Some woolen stuffs woven by members of the guild with primitive apparatus have been dyed with privet, bracken, gorse and other well-known plants, and even with soot from the chimney, the last producing a beautiful old gold tint. There are also some fine specimens of leather work, pottery and jewelry.

The Trident.

"Who was Neptune?" inquired the student.

"Neptune," replied the girl who merely looks at the pictures, "was the ancient gentleman who invented the oyster fork."

MEMORY DAY

By MARY M'DONOUGH.

(Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The girl with the dreamy, sad eyes, found her way to the little grave in the sleepy churchyard, far away from the teeming city.

She laid her offering of flowers on the mound and then sat beside it, dreaming dreams of another mound in Flanders—perhaps uncared for, perhaps unnoticed; dreaming dreams of other and happier May times, when life seemed rose-tinted and glowing with promise.

A little old lady, shriveled and faltering, her skin brown and wrinkled with the years, broke in upon her reveries. She seemed surprised to find another grieving at her shrine, surprised to find the lovely remembrance of flowers. She brushed an aged hand across her forehead, as if trying to remember the sweet-faced stranger.

"Are you Margaret Ryan's granddaughter?"

The girl rose and took the old lady's hands in hers.

"I'm Joan Myles," she answered with her wonderful half-sad smile, "and I came from the city. I spent a vacation here last fall. I've always liked to wander alone through churchyards, and I came across this tombstone. It—it seemed mystically dear to me because—it bore the name of the man I was to marry. He—he fell on Flanders fields. The date on the stone was so long ago I thought perhaps no one remembered, and since I could not go to my own beloved's resting place, I thought I could seem nearer to him on this memory day if I came out here where his name was."

But the little old lady was thinking of her own lover-husband, who had fought in the Civil war, and who was still a young, handsome lad to her.

"Ah, that's it," she breathed, "it makes them seem nearer. My folks can't understand my remembering and grieving still, but the poet spoke truly when he said:

"The heart that has truly loved, never forgets,

But as truly loves on to the end,"

and I never have forgotten during all the years."

And so they stayed there for long hours that flew by on wings, while they talked a little and dreamed.

At last the grounds became deserted. A flaming, riotous sunset hung its exquisite picture over distant hills and reflected itself in the shimmering Merimae. With a start the girl arose.

"It's very late. You must be faint," she said. "Let me help you to your home. I had no idea we were here so long! But somehow the visit has strangely touched me. I seem more hopeful; my cross seems easier to bear. Perhaps—"

Then she started. She grew deathly pale, and trembled from head to foot, for straight in front of her was the image of her sweetheart. A piercing scream, and she fell forward in a dead faint.

When she regained consciousness, she found herself in his arms, with the little old lady, whom he addressed as "Grandmother," bending close. The words of "Antonio" in an old poem came to her thoughts:

"Oh, ghost or spirit of my buried love! I know not, care not which.

But be welcome, thrice welcome to this heart of mine!"

"Jim! Jim!" she breathed, when at last she could speak, "they told me you were dead!"

"And I might as well be," he returned, "when they told me you had broken your faith with me and married."

"Married?" she gasped. "My dear, my dear! What made you think that?"

"Celeste Royden broke it to me gently in a kind, careful letter. She was beautifully thoughtful in those black 'across-the-ocean' days for me."

"And it was Celeste Royden who broke the news to me of your falling in Flanders. She was inexpressibly sympathetic, and it was her advice that I should seek forgetfulness in another city, away from the haunting memories of you."

"And you are still Joan Myles?"

The years seemed to slip from his shoulders and something of a hope that he had thought turned to ashes shone forth in his face. "You're not broken your faith?"

It seemed almost too wonderful not to be a dream or fiction. Then a deep, flaming look of wrath came into his face.

"As for Celeste," he muttered.

"Never mind, Celeste," Joan answered simply. "Jealous, unhappy girls act unaccountably at times, and since we really have each other—since we're going to be so beautifully happy again—let's forgive her!"

"And to think that you should have come to grandfather's grave!" he marvelled. "We worried over grandmother staying so long. Had I not come in search of her, I might never have found you again. It seems odd, too, that I should have visited her now."

"Truly the ways of the Lord are wonderful," spoke the little old lady devoutly. "His ways are not always our ways. I shan't have many more years left to me to take care of this precious grave, but I know now that you two, who have found happiness here, will never forget it."

Tenderly they helped the sweet old soul, who had not forgotten. And so, on Memorial day—that dear, bitter-sweet time when the world pauses to dream of departed "perfect days" with their haunting "memories that bless and burn"—Joan and Jim started life anew, bright with promise and hope.

SEEM AFRAID TO BE HAPPY

So Many People Apparently Fear to Count and Appreciate the Blessings That Are Thine.

A well-meaning, if rather egotistical gentleman once said to a mother who saw her son playing happily with his children: "Don't set too much store on your children, especially don't make idols of them, for fear they are taken from you as a punishment."

It was good to hear the spirited retort of the warm-hearted little woman. The remembrance of it is inspiring today, remarks London Answers.

"I'm going to love my children with all the love I am capable of whilst I have got them. If they are taken from me, which certainly won't be as a 'punishment,' I shall be glad to remember how very dearly I have loved them!"

She was not afraid to be happy.

A poor fellow whose life had been one long fight against grinding poverty was unexpectedly left a legacy which quite removed him from further want. The touch of the past, however, was still upon him. He was afraid to spend, afraid to raise his face to the sunshine; he was afraid to be happy. The pathos of it!

On the other hand, there are those who, with little or nothing to worry about, just grizzle and grouse, till you long to shake them—and shake them thoroughly—because they are afraid even to be thought happy.

Here is a sample of a visit to one of the "G. G." variety:

"What a nice bit of sunshine we're having just now!" you may perhaps remark.

"Ay, but how long will it last?"

"Well, it's shining now, anyway!"

You retort, in natural exasperation at his pessimism.

"But it'll rain before night, see if it doesn't!" And so on ad lib., no matter what subject was broached.

Of course, for lots of us some things are pretty bad just now—it's inevitable, if one takes time to think. But among it all, there are bits of happiness if we will only allow ourselves to see them. The sunshine when it does appear, the merry laugh of a friend, a bit of luck after a hard day, the restoration to health of a dear one, the eager questionings of the children arising out of their beautiful "wonderings," a talk with, or a letter from a kindred spirit.

Cheerio!—Don't you be afraid to be happy!

Peculiar Geological Formation.

There is located immediately west of Junction City a few miles south of Danville, Ky., a wonderful geological formation known as "Bald Blue Knob." This is a member of the chain that branches off from the Cumberland mountains and extends along the route of the Knoxville division of the Louisville & Nashville railway.

From its foot to its crest is about 200 feet and except on the large flat top, with a small knob in its center, it is covered with shrubbery and vegetation. The top, however, is absolutely barren. Not a sprig of any kind has ever grown upon it.

The soil is as blue as indigo and this coloring has never been affected by the ravages of time. It is believed by many that this knob was at one time a volcano, and that the surface of the crest was belched forth from the bowels of the earth.

The "Bald Blue Knob" has been an object of wonder for many generations, and hundreds of visitors ascend its steep sides each year to view its crown of richest azure.

Milk and Meat Prevent Pellagra.

The most recent researches in pellagra, just published in the form of a report from the United States public health service, make it clear that deficiency of milk and fresh meat in the diet is the principal cause of the disease.

Dr. Joseph Goldberger, to whom the world owes most of its knowledge of pellagra, urges that more cows be introduced into those regions of our southern states in which pellagra is most prevalent, and that all the year-round fresh meat markets be established.

In an Awful State.

After refreshments at a card party the topic of conversation was the condition we found our flat in when we moved. My husband told a long comical story of how he spent his whole Saturday afternoon trying to get the kitchen floor clean. Every one laughed with the exception of one woman, who said: "We just moved from that flat." It is needless to say the color of my husband's face turned.—Exchange.

Eggs Miraculously Saved.

A young man at Meredith, N. H., making an evening call, in going through the hall opened the cellar door by mistake and stepped into space, bringing down a number of jars of preserved blueberries and landing in a jar containing 18 dozen eggs. He emerged scratched and covered with blueberries, but although he weighs 200 pounds not an egg was broken.

Corresponded With 535 Girls.

The mess sergeant at Camp Kelly flying field in Texas declares that he corresponded with 535 girls throughout the duration of the war. The sergeant kept a ledger, showing postage costs, retained copies of all letters and used carbon copies to help out.

No Sympathy Due.

"Don't you think Mr. Higgins is suffering from exaggerated ego?"

"No," answered Miss Cayenne. "He doesn't suffer. He enjoys it."

Enemies of the Olive Tree.

Besides the birds, there are numerous insects which attack the fruit, the wood and the leaves of the olive tree. The most dreaded of these is a small fly called Dacus oleae, which is about half the size of a common house fly. The female has a sting like a wasp, with which she punctures the fruit where she deposits her eggs. It is calculated that a single fly will thus destroy three hundred or four hundred olives.
